THE CHANGING IMAGE OF THE GA. TECH COED

ABOVE LEFT: Kathy Coldren. ABOVE: Patti Durant.

In former years the Georgia Tech coed has often been called everything except that which pertains to beauty. It was hard enough for the female student to compete with the male Tech student but to have everyone think of you as an oddity was quite an obstacle to obtaining attention. Times have changed though and Tech is beginning to realize that the old image is no longer applicable to Tech women today.

With a influx of women students this year which doubled Tech's previous women enrollment, it was quite impossible to represent all of the coeds on these four pages. By selecting only nine girls to portray the photo essay, we have tried to obtain a good representation of the woman student at Tech today. It is the sincere hope of the student body that the number of female students will keep increasing. Who knows — maybe one day the female engineer will outnumber the male engineer.
